

Iron County Register.

Missourians Victimized by a Bogus California Farmer.

[From the San Francisco Bulletin.]
S. M. Brown was arrested last night in the Home of the Incubators, and charged with embezzling a gold watch and chain from Mrs. Wm. Mills. The woman's husband and Brown first met in Piedmont, Mo., about one year ago. There Brown passed himself off as a California farmer, owning an $11,000 ranch and a large bank account. As he knew nothing of farming, he offered Mills $50 a month and expenses and a share of the crops to oversee the farm. The offer was accepted, and Mills and his wife accompanied Brown, who left on the 1st instant for this city with his wife and child. A day or two before starting the princely California farmer suddenly discovered that a Post Office order of $1,000 was in this city, instead of Piedmont, and he would accordingly have to borrow $800 from Mills, to be repaid immediately upon arrival. The money was handed over, the journey made, this city being reached the 7th inst. Quarters were secured at the International Hotel for a day or two preceding the mythical journey to the mythical ranch, while Brown transacted some important business. Time wore on, until Mills impudently Brown so strongly for his money that the latter, on Monday last, promised to pay him that afternoon, and, borrowing Mrs. Mills' watch, as his was undergoing repairs, started out from the hotel. As Brown failed to return, the matter was reported to police headquarters. Officers Bee and Bradford were detailed to work up the case, and before dark found Mr. Mills' watch in a pawn shop. They then traced Brown to the Incubator Home, where he was arrested late last evening. Inquiry at the Post Office showed that Brown's money order was a myth. When Brown was brought into Court this morning, he began to cry like a street-sprinkling machine, and complained of the terrible conspiracy that had been formed to deprive him of his property. Wishing to provide for his wife, he called for a piece of paper and wrote a note to Wells, Fargo & Co., asking them to pay her $5,000. This money he requested Detective Bee to draw. The case having been examined Brown was convicted of petty embezzlement.

Wants to Know, You Know.

EDITHBURGH, Mo., May 30, 1882.
Ed. Register—As I am interested in the wool-growing business, I should like to see a certified statement from each of the two parties who have samples of wool hanging in your office, as to the number of months those samples were growing on the sheep's backs before they were clipped. Is it not possible that small patches of wool were left on the sheep last year and allowed to grow another year? This would satisfactorily account for the 22 and 24-inch locks of wool exhibited. If this is so, they can very easily say so; if not so, they can deny it.
Respectfully,
POSTMASTER,
Edithburgh, Mo.

Mr. Pate and the gamblers of St. Louis who are under indictment under the Johnson law have signed a document agreeing to abandon gambling entirely in this State provided they can have an indefinite continuance of their cases. They report that they had bad advice touching the constitutionality of the law, and they kept on violating it in order to thoroughly test it in the courts. They have tested and are reasonably satisfied. The Johnson law has proved somewhat efficacious. There is no disposition, we presume, to pursue the indicted gamblers with vindictiveness and malignancy, but it wouldn't be a bad idea to give a few of them a little State employment—just by way of example.

UNNATURAL OBSTRUCTIONS.—Certain fundamental laws of nature are demanded by the human organism. As life requires constant and regular action, there is necessarily a continual wearing out of material and a corresponding accumulation of effete matter, which must be thrown off through the different channels of the system. This is absolutely necessary to a healthful action of the human machine; but should the channels of egress become obstructed, or blocked up, disease and suffering would be the legitimate result. Nearly all females, married or single, at stated times, suffer from these obstructions, leading to headache, leucorrhoea, loss of appetite, hysteria, prostrations, loss of color, prostration, emaciation, etc. There is one remedy which will cure this condition of female life, known as English Female Bitters, the grand triumph as female regulator.

Reasoning from Analogy.

[From Texas Sittings.]
An Austin family was recently blessed with a baby boy, the first one in the family. Next door was a family in which there were half a dozen children. When the arrival of the boy next door was announced, little Johnny, aged six years, asked:
"Have they got a boy, sure enough?"
"Yes, there's a boy over there at last."
"Then they will have a whole lot more. That's the way we did."

Leis' Dandelion Tonic will not cure consumption when the disease is thoroughly established, but, by improving the digestion, stimulating the emunctories to healthy action, restoring lost brain and nerve power, thus improving the general health, it will arrest that fell disease in its incipency. It comes as near being a "cure for consumption" as anything ever compounded.

TEXAS Sittings: An exchange says Jesse James died poor. That was his own fault. He ran through a great deal of property, mostly land, during his life. He ran through some of it very rapidly, too.

Gov. St. John, of Kansas, predicts that Missouri will be a Prohibition State in a few years.

Vernon says a great deal of rain will fall in Missouri during the month of June.

Dr. T. C. Thompson, of the firm of Thompson, George & Co., wholesale druggists, Galveston, Texas, says that to his own personal knowledge English Female Bitters is a most wonderful medicine for the cure of chronic female complaints. He knew of a case in Galveston, considered almost hopeless, which resisted all medical aid from the profession. She was induced to try the Bitters, and commenced improving at once, and was finally entirely cured by their use. Similar cases are recorded all over the country and no female afflicted with any disease peculiar to her sex, should fail to use them. As a uterine tonic and female regulator it has no equal, for married and single.

THE two branches of the Presbyterian Church, North and South, have agreed to bury their differences, but have not yet acquired sufficient fraternal love to come together in unity.

It is said that a single tree has been known to bear 25,000 oranges when at its prime. In Spain and Portugal 3,000 to 4,000 are considered satisfactory crops.
